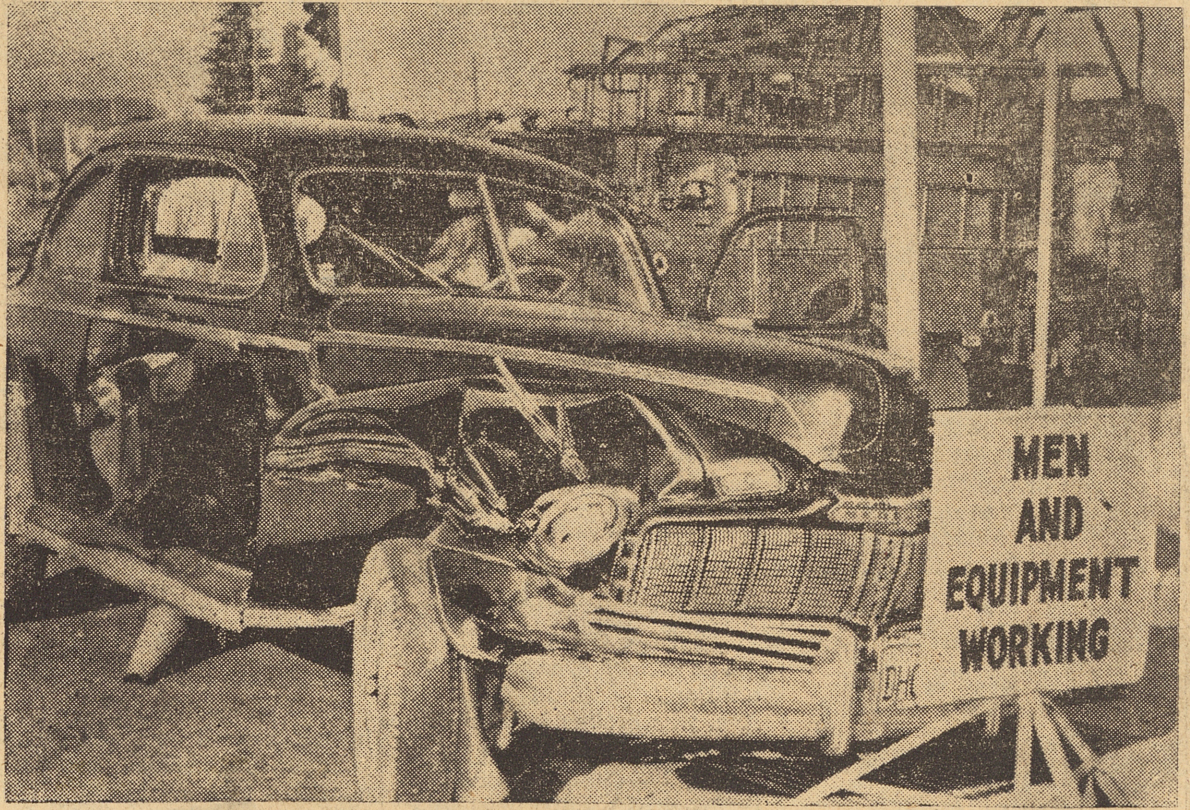
A GROWING NEWSPAPER — A GROWING COMMUNITY

Vol. 65, No. 47 CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA 10c Thurs., Nov. 7, 1957



BUT THE SIGN DOESN'T MEAN IT . . . Three generations, a little girl, her mother and grandmother were slightly injured in a two-car accident at San Jose-Los Gatos Road and Union Ave. Thursday. Mrs. Sylvia Anderson, Mrs. Helen Anderson and her daughter Geraldine, 6, of San Jose, were passengers in a car driven by Dennis Anderson. The other motorist was Peter C. Tripoli, also of San Jose. The above photo shows what one of the cars looked like after the crash. You can't always believe in signs.

Council, Land Owners Clash on 'Bad Faith'

Charges of bad faith on both sides were made at the City Council meeting Monday when a group of property owners in the industrial park area who had originally petitioned the Council to form an assessment district for street and other improvements asked that their names be withdrawn from the petition.

The Council deferred action on the request until City Attorney Joseph Bonacina had investigated the legality of the procedure.

The property owners located on Dell Ave. and the extension of Sunny Oaks claimed that Council (and Planning Commission) had acted in bad faith in their attempt to put the area into the new "Controlled Manufacturing (CM)" zone. They maintained that they had been given to understand prior to annexation that the area would be zoned light manufacturing (M-1-S).

The petition claimed that "CM" zoning in face of the heavy assessment charges necessary to make the required street and sewer improvements would make it impossible for the property owners to recover financially.

The petitioners suggested also that, if the area would be zoned M-1-S, they would reconsider their request for withdrawal and implied that they would then go ahead with the improvement program.

Councilman Richard Morton declared that the City had already expended $5,000 in engineering and other services in the preliminary work for the formation of the improvement district. He felt that the property owners were showing bad faith in trying to withdraw from their original request. It was because of their request, he pointed out, that the City authorized City Engineer Mark Thomas to go ahead with the preliminary engineering work.

Other councilmen also appeared to take a dim view of what they termed a "blackjack method" to get the zone changed.

"Five cents of each taxpayer's dollar in the City of Campbell has gone into this project", Morton added, "and now those who asked us to do the work tell us they don't want it done and want to back out."

Councilman Myron Fairchild said he questioned the property owners "not wanting it." He said they just didn't want "CM" zoning. Morton countered that he would hesitate to make any agreement with them now based on this experience.

Steve Goodman, manager of Santitation District No. 4, which is building its office and corporation yard in the same area, told the Council that the improvements were needed for the development of the area and were essential to the efficient operation of the district. He said that he was sorry to see the improvement program hampered by the "CM" controversy. He added that the District had not signed the petition for withdrawal.

Among the names appearing on the petition asking for withdrawal were Western Gravel Co., R. L. Townsend, Henry Ludeman, Mark J. Thomas, Warren Brown, Pete Stewart, Floyd Day and Robert Herschbach.

Route 5 Chalks Up Number One

There are still many months to go before the Route 5 Freeway will be completed through Campbell. But on Monday the Freeway chalked up its first automobile accident when one of the construction company vehicles and a passing motorist collided at the truck crossing on Campbell Ave.

Driving the truck was James Homer McCammon, 44, of Centerville who police report was proceeding south on freeway construction road and across Campbell Ave. Driver of the other vehicle, who was going west on Campbell Ave., was Emma Angeline Owens, 17, of 375 McLellon Drive, San Jose.

The car was almost totally damaged by the collision with the heavier vehicle.

Miss Owens told police she thought the flagman had motioned her to cross the truck crossing after she had slowed down.

Old St. Lucy's Church Building Gets New Owner

Campbell's Free Will Baptist Church, housed in four different temporary quarters since its establishment here four years ago, last Sunday moved into its first permanent home, the church building formerly occupied by St. Lucy's Catholic Church at Third St. and Rincon Ave.

The sale of the church property which also included the parsonage, was made to Claude E. Smith, local real estate agent. He, in turn, deeded the church and parking to the Free Will Baptist Church but retained ownership of the parsonage. A house and lot between the church and the parsonage was not involved in the sale.

Smith, who is associated with Edith Brandt Realty Co., said the entire transaction amounted to about $30,000. Steve Dorcich handled the selling details for St. Lucy's.

Pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church is the Rev. I. L. Boggs who took the place of the Rev. George McLane in June. The church congregation had been meeting in the Odd Fellows Hall in Santa Clara just prior to acquiring its new home. The church previously had held services in the old Methodist Church building on Campbell Ave. and in two other temporary locations in Campbell.

The old St. Lucy's Church was built in 1929 and was used by the church until last August when the new St. Lucy's Church was completed on Winchester Road near Kennedy Ave. adjacent to the St. Lucy's School.

Planners Okay New 'CM' Zone Ordinance

Controversial "Controlled Manufacturing" zoning for Campbell moved a step nearer adoption Tuesday night when the City Planners unanimously approved the revised zoning ordinance and sent it to the City Council. The action of the Commission followed a series of compromise meetings extending over a period of several weeks.

But the disgruntled property owners in the industrial park area through their attorney, John Burnett, served notice that they would still continue to oppost the adoption of "CM" zoning down to the wire.

Burnett told the Commission that because the Planners at the compromise meetings would not concede three points (1) allowing outdoor storage; (2) allow other than masonry construction and (3) changing the name from "controlled" to a less harsh term, for example, "restricted" or "limited", his clients would not be satisfied with anything but a manufacturing (M-1-S) zone for the area.

Burnett's presentation was brief and subdued in sharp contrast to his previous appearances before the Commission or Council. He claimed that the revised zoning was "unsatisfactory to the people I represent".

He conceded that the amended zoning plan was not as bad as it was originally before the compromise meetings between the property owners and the Planners but that it was still objectionable and his clients desired M-1-S zoning for their property.

R. L. Townsend, a property owner in the area, told the Commission that the cost of improvements would increase the value of his land so much that it would be impossible to come out of it unless a part of his holdings would be sold. This, he pointed out, was prohibitive under the acreage limitation of the new zone and that the Commission was making a "sad and serious mistake in the one-acre ruling.

Commissioner Homer Hyde and Chairman Sam O'Brien explained that the "CM" zoning ordinance did not specify acreage limitations. That matter would come up at a later date.

Future Park Site Gets Boost

Campbell's future recreational area, still only a gleam in the eyes of those who see possibilities of developing the abandoned gravel pit at the edge of the southern city limits, got a small financial shot-in-the-arm this week from an unexpected quarter.

Tom Casey, former Campbell police officer, now with County Communications and active in youth activities, said he would be willing as one of the guardians of approximately $450 raised several years ago in the Billy Wilson celebration which is earmarked for some useful youth work, to see the money go toward the development of one section of the proposed park, if and when the site could be obtained.

He thought it would be possible to build a tennis court or a similar facility in the park area with the money and dedicate it to Billy Wilson as the committee has been directed to do.

GUESS WHO? . . . We aren't telling who are behind those masks. Frankly, we don't know. But we will give you a hint. The day was Halloween and the clowns, ghosts and all the you-name-its were waiting to catch the bus. Most of them got off at Rosemary School. The bus picked them up on Virginia Ave. near Rincon. UNITED GIVER LEADERS . . . Planning the windup of the United Givers Drive in Campbell are, left to right, Les Harmon and Homer H. Hyde, business and public employee chairmen; Mrs. E. T. Litynsky, residential chairman; and Jack Payne, commerce and industry chairman. Merv Willoughby is Campbell general chairman for the drive. Campbell goal is $10,000.

United Givers Drive Here Gets Into High Gear

Campbell's United Giver campaign rolled into high gear this week after being hampered the past two weeks by illness. The increased campaign activity reflected in the week's gains. To date $6,427.37 of Campbell's $8,500 quota has been collected.

Jack Payne and Homer Hyde, heading the small business, industry and commerce division, report an increase in contributions double over last week, going from $600 to $1250.

Mrs. Ellis Litynsky, chairman of the residential division, announced a gain of $336.50, bringing the week's total for her doorbell ringers from $832.02 to $1173.52.

Contributions in the schools division under Mrs. Eugen Andres added $697 to last week's $2,986.85 making a total of $3683.85.

Information on additions to the professional peoples' fund of $320 were not available at press time.

TRICK OR TREAT?

The Medical-Dental building on Poplar Ave. at Campbell Ave. was broken into on Halloween night, Campbell police report, but nothing apparently was taken. Entry was gained through a window at the rear and three of the doctor's offices in the building were visited by the night prowlers.

Tuesday Was Bad Day on the Road

Campbell police were kept pretty busy Tuesday investigating traffic mishaps.

A Campbell resident, Mrs. Lois Travis Jordan, 139 Dot Ave., miraculously escaped injuries at 5:30 p.m. when the car she was driving collided with a train at the Sunnyside Ave. crossing in Campbell.

Her car, however, was not so fortunate and was totally damaged.

At 4:30 p.m., Mrs. Pearl Mears, 106 N. Central, driving an electric autoette and a car dirven by Joseph Badal, of Sunnyvale, collided at Central and Campbell Ave. Only slight damage was done to both vehicles.

The day of mishaps started at 7 in the morning when cars driven by Grijalva Mesa and Olph Eligh Hopkins collided at Campbell Ave. and Winchester Road. Again only minor damage was done.

NEED CD CHIEF

The City of Campbell is still looking for a Civil Defense director (unpaid), Mayor John M. Chargin announced Monday night. Anyone interested and willing to volunteer is asked to contact the Mayor.

Planners Act to Make Subdivision Signs Legal

Making subdivision advertising signs legal occupied a good portion of the Planning Commission's meeting Tuesday. The Planners gave their blessing to three signs of Stone & Schulte in various sections of the town.

It was explained by W. L. (Bud) Morser, building inspector, that the signs were already up but that the real estate firm unwittingly had not followed the correct procedure in erecting them.

In contrast to the attitude of Stone & Schulte, Morser and Planning Consultant Nestor Barret reported that a sign of the Mosher-Stiner Realty Co. at Winchester Road and Latimer was in violation

Rotarians View Middle-East Slides

A. L. Anderson, a retired Standard Oil executive, took Rotarians on a pictorial tour of the Middle-East Monday.

Anderson talked on "The Middle-East Cities" and showed colored slides on the countries of Syria and Lebanon and the cities of Beirut, Damascus, Istanbul, and Aleppi. Anderson shot the pictures several years ago while stationed with Standard Oil on the Bahrein Islands in the Persian Gulf. Of particular interest were scenes of "The Citadel" at Aleppo showing details of Moorish architecture.

Dr. Wayne Hopp was chairman for the day.

Planners Suggest Zone Change on S.J.-L.G. Road Area

City Planners on Tuesday night indicated that they looked with favor on the development of a regional shopping center area for Campbell when they set a public hearing date for changing the zone from industrial to commercial of approximately 40 acres on the San Jose-Los Gatos Road.

Setting the date of the hearing followed the report of Commissioner Kenneth Priestley, who recommended that the area extending north from Campbell Ave., including Brynteson Ranch, would be better suited to commercial development than industrial.

Priestley pointed out that the high value placed on the land makes it unusable for industrial use and suggested that a heavy commercial zone for the area would be more in keeping.

The area set for hearing is bounded on the north by the property of Joseph Giannini, on the east by San Jose-Los Gatos Road, and on the south by Campbell Ave. and on the west by the Los Gatos Creek.

Bucs Shuffle Line In Prep for Clash Against Los Altos

Coach Jim Muir is shuffling the football deck this week to try to find the right combination to end the current win famine plaguing the Campbell High Buccaneers.

The Bucs, who have dropped four straight this season, go against the Knights of Los Altos tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Campbell field.

The Knights, who were sharing the cellar with Campbell until last week, moved up to ninth place after forcing Washington to come from behind to tie, 13-13. Los Altos now has a lost three, tied one season record.

The Knights lost one game to Camden by only one point, 13-12, and were ahead of high flying James Lick, 13-7, until Lick scored in the last minute of play to squeeze out a 14-13 win.

So, although the Knights from the North have a far from impressive won-lost record, they are sure to give the Bucs all they can handle tomorrow and Muir is shifting his lineup to try to plug both offensive and defensive gaps.

Biggest change in the Buc lineup is the shifting of Jim Cole from starting quarterback to starting center, with rough 'n tumble Tom Farley moving over to guard.

With Cole out of the backfiled, the signal calling duties will fall mainly to quarterback Bob Whitewing, who has been alternating with Cole all season. Whitewing, who is a good ball handler and can travel on the ground has shown in recent games that he can move the club offensively.

Spelling Whitewing will be Bob Stewart, a 180 lb., 5-11 junior who has progressed will in recent showings.

With Farley taking over at right guard, Muir has moved Jerry Fuller to left guard replacing Roy Tannehill.

Muir will also be shoring up the Buc line at tackle by starting Dave Walter in one of the tackle slots. Walters a 180 lb., 6-0 junior, started the season as tackle against Washington and turned in a fine defensive performance.

The Bucs have been working hard this week on power around the ends hoping to improve speed and blocking on end sweeps. With Don Womer and Ken Buran alternating at fullback, the Bucs are hoping to be able to move on the sweep plays.

Loop Reschedules Buc-Cougar 'B' Tilt

The Campbell High-Camden High Bee football game, postponed last month when an outbreak of flu cancelled all SCVAL athletics for a week, was rescheduled this week by league officials for Wednesday,, November 27.

The intradistrict clash, which will be the first meeting of the two teams, had been originally set for October 10. The game will be played on the Campbell gridiron.

Trip Survey Firm Asks Cooperation Of Local Motorists

Fewer than one out of three Santa Clara County motorists have returned their Traffic Survey post-cards thus far, according to James W. Meyer, project engineer of the survey being conducted by De Leuw, Cather and Co. for the County.

Campbell residents' response to the survey has been "considerably better than the response for the county as a whole," Meyer said But he added that Campbell returns were far from complete and that eight or ten Campbell responses were being received daily by the survey group.

Trip cards were mailed to Campbell more than a month ago, but many cards were delayed at the post office due to the revision of street numbering here last fall.

Los Altos Bounces Buc D Cagers

Los Altos held the Campbell High D cagers to only one point in the second half Tuesday to hand the Bucs their first loss of the season, 24-17, and climb into a tie for first place with Campbell.

After taking a 16-14 lead at halftime, the Ds came apart in the second half and scored only once on a free throw while Los Altos was rolling up ten points to top the league leaders.

High scorer for the Ds was Victor Itow with eight points. Gary Kanemoto was second with five.

The Ds play Lick there today at 3:30 and face Camden Tuesday at 3:30 at the Campbell gym.

In a game last week against Washington, the Ds had retained their unmarred record by toppling the Huskies, 29-17. The Ds jumped to a commanding 15-3 lead in the first quarter and were never threatened.

High scorer for the Ds was Don Suhama, the league's leading scorer, with 10 points. Suhama scored eight of his total points in the first quarter. Kanemoto and Itow each scored six points, with Itow picking up four in the first quarter.

Hornets Nip 49ers To Cop Loop Title

The Billy Wilson Hornets edged past the Redwood City Junior 49ers, 7-0, last Sunday to cinch the Pop Warner Conference championship and set up a possible divisional championship game here Nov. 17.

The win over the 49ers gave the undefeated Hornets undisputed possession of the conference crown. Redwood City, with only one loss until last week, was the only team with a chance of tying the Hornets for the title. All other teams in the league had at least two defeats.

The Hornets play their last season game Sunday at San Anselmo.

With the league title in the bag, the Hornets may have a chance to play the northern division champion, probably Livermore, in a divisional championship game at Campbell in two weeks.

The win was the sixth straight league victory for the local gridders and their eighth straight win for the season.

The only score in the game came when quarterback Randy Sutton dove over from two yards out in the second quarter. Sutton had set up the TD two plays earlier with a 22 yard gallop around end to put the Hornets inside the 49er five.

Fullback Bash Bondi drove off tackle for the extra point to make it 7-0.

Buc Bees Sting 'Cats To Keep Second Place

Hard charging right half Marc Bahl crunched out 119 yards on the ground to lead the Campbell High Buc Bees to a come-from-behind 14-6 win over Los Gatos last week.

The win kept the Bucs in a second place tie with James Lick and definitely in the running for the SCVAL crown.

The Bees host Los Altos today at 3 p.m. at Campbell field. Los Altos, one step up from the cellar in loop standings, showed very surprising strength last week in a 25-25 draw against Washington. The Knights have lost four and tied one this season, including a tight 13-12 edging by Camden.

Bahl, who ran wild against hapless Los Gatos to roll up nearly half the Bucs' 240 yard total offense, also scored the Bucs' second touchdown and added the PAT after the first score to account for half the Buc scoring. Bahl averaged 6.6 yards per carry against the Cats.

The Bucs, hampered in the passing department because of quarterback Benny Lujan's injured wrist, stayed on the ground most of the game, rolling up an impressive offensive total and controlling the ball for 17 minutes in the second half.

Lujan, who sprained his right wrist against Washington two weeks ago, threw only six passes, completed only two and had two intercepted.

Although he could not pass effectively, Lujan rolled up 65 yards on the ground and several times picked up crucial first down yardage to keep Buc drives moving.

Although the Cats constantly bottled up left half Ron Wilson, the Bees top ground gainer, Lujan, Bahl and fullback Greg Yamamoto, who played the game with an injured hand, ran wild to keep the Cats jumping.

Wilson had averaged over 100 yards in the last three Buc games.

After Los Gatos had scored in the second quarter to take a 6-0 halftime lead, the Bucs exploded in the second half to completely dominate play. While the Bucs offense was taking apart the Los Gatos line, the Cats only managed to gain 20 yards and made only one first down in the second half.

The Bucs got back in the game the first time they got the ball in the third quarter when they drove 80 yards in 20 plays for a TD. Lujan dove over from the two for the score and Bahl drove for the conversion to make it 7-6.

With less than four minutes in the game, the Bucs added the clincher when Bahl climaxed an 81 yard, 13 play drive by going over from six yards out. Wilson went for the conversion to make it 14-6 with only seconds to play.

The Bucs should be back at full strength this week with Lujan's wrist healing quickly and center-linebacker Dann Schwartz expected to be in the lineup.

Buc C Cagers Win, Climb in League

Led by Dick Mayeda, C league high scorer, the Campbell High C hoopsters toppled second place Los Altos, 34-16 Tuesday, to climb to a second place tie with Los Altos and stay in the running for the league title.

Mayeda scored 14 points for top honors in the scoring department and teamed up with Kent Winters to lead the Bucs to the win. Winters, third highest scorer in the league, tanked nine points against Los Altos.

The Cs meet Lick there today at 3:30 and host Camden Tuesday at 3:30 at the Campbell gym.

Washington had handed the Cs their second loss of the season last week scoring 18 points in the fourth quarter to top the Bucs, 41-32.

After the Bucs had managed to move to a 23-23 tie at the end of the third period, the Huskies exploded for their scoring spree to ease past Campbell.

Mayeda was also high scorer for the Bucs against Washington, running up a 15 point total. Mike Uyemura was second with eight points while Winters tallied six.

VISITS HONGKONG

Floyd D. Morrow, sonarman seasman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Morrow of 12552 Saratoga Ave., Campbell, aboard the destroyer escort USS Walker, visited Hong Kong, this month when the U.S. Seventh Fleet vessel halted anti-submarine operations for a rest and recreational stop for her crew. The Walker, a Pearl Harbor based destroyer, left Hawaii in August with large leis of flowers, draped over her bow and stern as she headed toward Far Eastern waters.

LOW DOWN ON SPORTS

Cal Poly Wins

For the first time in many moons Cal Poly defeated San Jose State 14-7. It was the first time since 1926 since they won.

The Mustangs are still undefeated this year and San Jose State is about the toughest team they have to meet to keep that record.

Spartan quarterback, Dick Vermeil, who had a 64 percent pass completion average, had an awful night—he only completed 2 out of 10 and had two intercepted.

Oregon 27—Stanford 26

Good passing and running by Oregons Crabtree and fullback Jack Morris' ability for kicking the ball through the uprights, had much to do with Stanford's defeat. It was a thrilling game from start to finish.

California Almost Wins

The Golden Bears really gave UCLA a rough time, but lost to the Bruins 16-14. The Bears, not at their best in the first half, with many fumbles and penalties, came into their own in the 3rd quarter. The second t. d. was made by Cal's second string who looked mighty good.

Notre Dame Loses

The Fighting Irish went down to the Navy 20-6. This should get their "Irish-up" and I think they will come back to take Michigan State this coming Saturday.

49'ers Just Get By

The San Francisco 49'ers just beat the Detroit Lions by the skin of their teeth—35-31.

Y. A. Tittle came through in the closing eleven seconds to pass to Owens who leaped into the air, clutched that ball and went over for the T.D.

This game makes San Franciscs's fifth consecutive victory and a two game lead in the NFL Western division.

Tittle broke two records Sunday which had been held by Frankie Albert, present 49'er coach and former player. He established an all-time 49'er completion percentage record with 21 completions in 28 attempts for a 75% mark. His 21 completions put him ahead of Alberts in total completions as a 49'er—843 to Albert's 831, both set during a seven year period.

PREP FOR UPSET . . . Camden Cougar quarterback Jay Risso (16, with ball), fullback Greg Rocha (34, left) and end Mel Profit (42) will be looking for an upset victory when they meet the second place James Lick Comets tomorrow at 3:00 p.m. at Camden field. Risso's running and Rocha's tosses to glue-fingered Profit have helped keep the Cougars in the top five of the SCVAL and the trio would like nothing better than to topple the favored Comets tomorrow.

Camden Mauled By Panthers, 26-0;

Coach Junior Morgan's Camden High Cougars hardly get a breathing spell this week before they run up against second place James Lick tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Camden field.

The Cougars fell prey to the league leading Santa Clara Panthers, 26-0, last week and now face the grim prospect of meeting Chon Gallegos and Co. tomorrow.

In absorbing their second loss of the season last week against the Panthers, the Cougars dropped to fifth place in SCVAL ratings.

The sailing ship "Balclutha," now tied up at Pier 43 in San Francisco, spent 24 years in the Alaskan trade as the "Star of Alaska."

Buc Hoop Stars Top Hoop Scoring

Don Suhama, who has paced the Campbell High D hoopsters to an undefeated season record and first place in the league, is also top scorer in the D league, according to official statistics released this week.

Suhama has scored 16 field goals and nine free throws so far this season to lead the league in scoring with 41 points. Suhama has consistently been high scorer for the Ds in their six straight league wins this year.

Dick Mayeda of the Campbell C basketball squad leads the C league with 34 field goals and 12 free throws for a total of 80 points. Mayeda's mark is 35 points ahead of the second place scorer, Bangayan of Los Gatos.

Kent Winters of Campbell is third in C league scoring with a 19-5 season mark for a total of 43 points.

The Ds lead their 13 team league with a 6-0 season record with Los Altos at 5-1 in second place, according to figures compiled to last Friday.

The Cs, who were undefeated in their first four games, slipped to fourth place after taking two straight defeats. Sunnyvale leads the C league with a 5-0 season record.

Buc JV's Flatten Sunnyvale, 25-18,

Fullback Ron Ruscigna scored two touchdowns to lead the Campbell High Buc Junior Varsity to a 25-18 win over Sunnyvale last week. It was the first win for the JVs in three starts.

The JVs were scheduled to play Los Altos there today but the Los Altos coaches asked for a cancellation early this week.

The Bucs took an early lead against Sunnyvale and were never threatened. Buc JV Coach Wade Wilson cleared the benches and Sunnyvale was only able to score when the Buc second and third units were in the game.

Ruscigna scored the first Buc TD when he went 20 yards around end in the first quarter. He added the final Campbell score when he intercepted a Sunnyvale pass and galloped 62 yards for a touchdown.

Quarterback Dick Sundt, who replaced Bill Alvarez as starting quarterback against the Jets, passed for one touchdown and dove over for another to round out the JV scoring.

Sundt threw to end Layne Waters on a play that covered 32 yards for the second Buc TD. He set up another on a 32 yard pass to end Bob Schafer to give the Bucs a first down on the Jet two and then plunged over on the next play.

Campbell end Frank Hammond took five passes and Waters caught three as the Bucs completed 10 of 15 pass attempts.

Fullback Jess Ledesma and halfback Cal Hogg almost were able to move the ball at will against the Jets and picked up several crucial downs to keep Campbell drives going.

Sunnyvale scored two touchdowns on passes from Jim Flanagan to Tony Perusa covering 52 and 60 yards respectively. Perusa ran 33 yards on a draw play to give the Jets their third TD.

Panthers Crush Camden Bees, 52-0

The undefeated Panther Bees of Santa Clara High uncorked their tremendous offensive attack last week to run up a crushing 52-0 score against the Camden Cougar Bees and retain their closefisted hold on the SCVAL "B" leadership.

The Panthers stormed relentlessly over the helpless Cougars to run up one of the biggest scores of the season and hand Camden their first official defeat of the year.

The Cougars host second place James Lick today at 3 p.m. at Camden field.

SPARTAN HOMECOMING

Many Campbell area residents are expectetd to be among the 2000 San Jose State College alumni who will renew auld acquaintance, this Saturday when they converge for the autumn homecoming dance and reunion and the climactic football game against College of Pacific Tigers.

'Farewell Night' Fetes Outgoing O.E.S. Officers

Last Friday was "Farewell Night" for outgoing officers of Campbell Chaper 553, Order of Eastern Star. Those honored were Mrs. Harold Adams, worthy matron, and Fred Johnson, worthy patron, and their staff of officers.

Mrs. Adams' motto, "I Believe", and her colors of pastel pink and green were used to decorate the East.

Since the Adams and the Johnsons plan a trip to Mexico for the Christmas holidays, a large star-shaped Mexican Pinatta was used for presentation of farewell gifts. The outgoing worthy patron and matron were blind-folded and given canes to break the pinatta which was filled with sweets and gifts.

Refreshments of Mexican origin rounded off the evening.

Guests escorted and presented were Mrs. Harry Thompson, deputy grand matron; and worthy matrons and patrons, Mrs. Joseph R. Garner and Armand Luepke of Los Gatos; Mrs. Clayton Bridge and Frank Abell of Menalto, Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan of Santa Clara, and Dr. Harry Thompson of Sunnyvale.

Also introduced were friends of Mrs. Adams and Johnson from Santa Cruz and the Oakland Oak Leaf chapter.

Mrs. Dean Chamberlin, chairman for the evening, was assisted by 1957 officers.

The next meeting of the Campbell Chapter will be November 15 at 8 p.m. in IOOF Hall.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY . . . Campbell's Mayor John Chargin and his family get ready for their part in St. Lucy's "Winter Wonderland" fashion show and dinner to be held November 13 at Hawaiian Gardens. The entire Chargin family will appear in the "Christmas Morning" scene. The show will feature apparel for men, women and children from Macy's Valley Fair. A few tickets are still available. The Mayor's family, left to right, are Michael, Mrs. Betty Chargin, Jeanne, Billy, baby Stevie in the arms of John Chargin, and Tommy, in the center foreground.

"Winter Wonderland" Setting Will Enhance St. Lucy's Fashion Show

Snow scenes, snowballs, and snowflakes will transform the Hawaiian Gardens Terrace Room into a fantasy on "Winter Wonderland" the evening of Wednesday, November 13, when St. Lucy's Mothers' Guild presents its fall fashion show-dinner at 7:30.

The fashion show, the most ambitious affair ever undertaken by the Guild, will feature styles for the man of the house, as well as his lady and offspring, from Macy's Valley Fair, exclusively. It is also designed to help the men solve their Christmas shopping problems.

Highlight of the evening will be the appearance of Mayor and Mrs. John Chargin of Campbell and their five children in the Christmas morning scene.

Advance ticket sales of the dinner-show for husbands and wives indicate the affair will soon be a sell-out. Turkey dinner with all the trimmings is on the menu.

The affair is open to the public and tickets can be obtained from Guild members or by calling Mrs. Ralph Doetsch, FR 8-3331; or Mrs. M. J. McCulloch, ES 7-2229.

Commentator on styles as models stroll down the ramp will be Mrs. Adolph Pedrin, a member of the Guild, who served in the same capacity at St. Lucy's fashion show last spring.

In the receiving line to greet guests as they arrive will be Mrs. Herbert Mabie, president of the Guild, and Mesdames Renso Orsi, Paul Cusick, and V. Leroy Howell, past presidents.

Special guest of the evening will be the Rev. Denis Kennelly, the Rev. Thomas Ahern, and Mesdames Michael Perrelli and E. Aceves.

Displaying Macy's latest fashions for women will be Mesdames John Chargin, Edward Grossheider, Doyle Malone, Ray Tripplett, Charles Owen, H. Masitce, Tom Connolly, Leonard Goscila, Vic Bahl, Eugene Kelly, Ray O'Brien, Felix Bersano, Jack Ahearn, Tyson Cowan, B. Wetherby, and Gordon Kiele.

Teen-age styles will be modeled by Rosemarie Aiello, Cecelia Howell, Diane Bahl, Leslie Bagar, Marcia DeRosa, Jane Cusick, and Bob Armansco.

Showing men's apparel will be Frank Bush, Frank Benevento, John Chargin, John Lauro, and Tom Connolly.

General chairman for the affair is Mrs. John Fleming who is being assisted by committee chairman: Mesdames Frank Bush and H. Mastic, models; N. R. Mowery, wardrobe; William F. Fisher and Richard Valentine, decorations; Frank Callahan and George Del Grande, drawings; Ralph Doetsch and M. J. McCulloch, reservations; Douglas Harville, music.

Mesdames Charles Schmidt and Patrick J. McNally, publicity; Jesse Smith and Peter Georgianni, program; V. LeRoy Howell, hostesses; Raymond Martin, door prizes; N. H. Morton and Joseph C. Corcoran, favors.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mesdames Alton Moore, Emil Vidas, Jesse Smith, Raymond Martin, Norbert Weslow, Kenneth Roberts, William McLachlan, Raymond Einberger, W. J. Adams, Frank Benevento, Chester Farber, Charles Schmidt, Richard Vieira, Vernon Callahan, and Henry Garcia.

Former Campbell Girl Engaged to Air Force Pilot

Of interest to their many Campbell friends is the betrothal announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Willard Van Dyke of Long Beach linking their daughter, Marilyn, and Thomas A. Haine of Honolulu.

The engaged pair plan to be married in December when the prospective bridegroom, now an aviation cadet at Brian Air Force Base, Texas, receives his commission and wings. They plan to reside in Honolulu.

Marilyn received her early schooling in Campbell and Mill Valley, She attended the University of California at Berkeley and was graduated from San Jose State College. She is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority and Long Beach Bachelorettes. At the present time she is teaching at the Helen Keller school in Long Beach.

Her fiance was graduated from San Jose State where he was a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Now professor and administrator at Long Beach State College, Dr. Van Dyke was principal of Campbell High School between the years 1937 and 1943 and member of the Kiwanis Club. Mrs. Van Dyke was active in community affairs and is past president of the Country Woman's Club. Their son Willard, Jr., is a Navy jet pilot stationed in Japan at the present time.

ASIATIC FLU

BE PREPARED
Asiatic flu is an infectious disease. It is easy to catch, has no known cure, usually spreads to epidemic proportions.

PREVENTION IS POSSIBLE
The only practical preventive known to medical science is influenza vaccine. Go to your physician and get protection with a shot of vaccine. One is all you need.

THE SYMPTOMS
include any or all of these: sudden fever, chills, headache, sore throat, cough, body aches*. When these appear, it's too late for vaccine. Go to bed and follow your doctor's orders.

THE SAFEGUARDS:

DO	DON'T
• eat sensibly	• get overtired
• get enough rest	• overeat
• drink plenty of water	• mingle in crowds
• wash hands often	• visit flu victims

And, check your medicine cabinet for a reliable thermometer, mouth washes, gargles, soaps, aspirin and other needs. Stop in, let us help you keep prepared.

BAKE SALLY LUNN — SWEET BREAD BELLE

Sally Lunn is a real Southern heroine; one who gives competition to Rebel Rose or Scarlet O'Hara! In fact, she's so delicious that she waltzes back and forth across the Mason Dixon Line all the time, with no questions asked. A sweet rich yeast-raised bread, it was first introduced by a lady of the same name in Bath, England during the 18th century. There the loaf is traditionally split, spread with butter and then returned to the oven for a last minute toasting. In America we bake it in a square pan and cut it into squares.

SALLY LUNN

1 cup milk
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup margarine or butter
½ cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast)
1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
3 eggs, well beaten
4 cups sifted enriched flour

Scald milk. Stir in sugar, salt and margarine or butter. Cool to lukewarm. Measure water into a large mixing bowl (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm water for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Stir in eggs and flour. Beat until smooth. Cover with a cloth and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 50 minutes. Stir down and pour into a well-greased pan (8 x 11 x 2 inches). Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes. If an extra dark crust is desired, sprinkle ¼ cup sugar over top. Bake at 400 degrees about 30 minutes. Remove from pan and cut into squares.

Foil stew and biscuits baked in reflector ovens was the bill-of-fare for the fourth training session which featured outdoor craft. It was held in the back yard of Mrs. Harry Smith on Sunnyside Ave.

Leaders attending were shown how to roll a bed roll and how to build and extinguish fires by field directors, Mrs. Richard Black and Miss Claire Burgess. Mrs. Peter Roest advised them on outdoor craft and camp craft.

—o—

Any group wishing to go on an outing to Camp Wastahi should register at least two weeks ahead of time. The ground fee is 25c. There is a schedule on fees and regulations at Camp Fire office.

15 Horizon girls have volunteered to accompany girls to Wastahi, if they are wanted. These girls are well qualified to help young campers and are a great help to guardians and leaders.

—o—

The fifth and final session of basic training was held at the Congregational Church Tuesday, November 5, and was an interesting study of Indian culture.

A movie of Hopi Indian life, "Villages in the Sky", showed how they made baskets and pottery, how they baked bread, and some of their dances. A second movie, "The Loon's Necklace", was about an interesting Indian legend acted out by Indians wearing wooden masks made by British Colombia natives.

A Council Fire and awarding of leaders' certificates was the climax of 16 hours of training.

—o—

Women who made this a successful training program were: Genie Smith, council training chairman; Patti Austin, district training chairman, Claire Burgess and Phyllis Black, field directors; Betty Lowe and Mrs. Bradshaw, crafts; LaVerne Whistler, song leader; Jean-Marie Roest and Bea Jauncey, Camp Fire tradition; Betty Voytek, awards; and Mary Smith, civic service.

GOOD PLUMBING SERVICE COSTS LESS THAN YOU THINK!

...a city of PIPE LINES...

That's the way Mr. Lucky Bordenave, manager of Sharin's Car Wash at 841 El Camino in Palo Alto, describes the plumbing system that supplies almost a million gallons of water per month to keep hundreds of Santa Clara County automobiles spic and span.

American inventive genius and the miracle of modern plumbing combine to make car washing a 5-minute coffee break for the car owner, instead of a back-breaking job. Yes, that "city of pipe lines" brings the water to high pressure steam cleaners, boilers and rinsing machines and efficient plumbing maintenance is the key to a continuous operation.

That's why Mr. Bordenave rates his plumbing contractor as one of the most important men in the success of his business.

Good plumbing service costs less than you think. Whenever you buy, repair, install or remodel, call a licensed plumbing contractor.

Mr. Baptist is bound to be a popular man about town if he offers many bargains like one you can get at the HOUSE OF CARPETS AND FURNITURE today. You can have an upright Hoover Vacuum Cleaner with a disposable bag for only $49.95 instead of the $89.95 you would usually pay.

One thing we noticed in the House of Carpets was the group of beautiful pictures framed in maple. If you've been searching for something to blend with your maple furniture, see these.

We especially liked the "kitcheny" scenes, peper pots and glowing tomatoes. These rich still life prints and antique maple frames compliment each other perfectly. There are striking modern prints here too, maybe just the one you've been looking for.

Len Campbell is still doing that same fine work as CAMPBELLS AUTO ELECTRIC. So if your car isn't behaving itself, take it in for a tune-up. That ounce of prevention is worth a pound of 'curses' on a chilly morning when you're late anyway, and then the car won't start.

So before that morning when you're kicking the fenders and praying for lightening to strike the car, you, or anyone unfortunate enough to be in your path at the time, take your car in for its fall check up. Let Len rassle with the problems. He has the equipment and the experience to do it.

We were watching T. V. the other evening. All ready to enjoy a program we'd been looking forward to. All of a sudden, there was an erratic pattern on the screen and then, nothing, n-o-t-h-i-n-g-!. Have you known the empty feeling of looking at a dead T.V. screen? Is there any more depressing shade of grey? And you can not listen to it like radio. People are laughing when no one said anything. It's enough to drive you mad.

Well, maybe it's not quite so dramatic as that, but it is SO irritating when your T.V. decides to roll over and play dead. When it gets temprамental, call Neel Timons at T. V. STANDARD for prompt service. He is authorized dealer for RCA Victor and an expert service man for all makes, If you're tired of putting up with the whimseys of your old set, look over the fine sets, new and reconditioned, that Neel has to offer.

O'NEILL AND ELLIS give the warning, See Us First for Fence Bargins, and you'd do well to follow their advice if you really want a fence at bargain prices.

They have fencing material that will make the fence you build an attractive addition to your home as well as carrying out its useful function.

Along with keeping children or pets in, or out, your fence can add a handsome touch to your yard.

If you need some expert advice on construction or material, see O'Neill and Ellis. They'll be glad to help you plan for your fencing needs, or any of your building needs.

Whether you're building a coup for your Homing Pigeons or Whooping Cranes, or a split-level home, O' Neill and Ellis can supply you with material most economically.

Look! Johnny Sullivan at WESTERN AUTO has started his Christmas "stocking" in earnest. He's telling everyone today that his Lay-a-way Plan is now in progress, and to come in and look things over while the selection is at its best. It takes just a small down payment to hold your selection until December 15, and it's not too early to think of laying away those gifts while you can get just what you want.

If you're looking for some bargains for the kids, don't you miss Johnny's toy table. There are games and toys there that are wonderful buys and all Priced for Clearance. Some little woman will have hours of fun "cooking" with the 40 piece aluminum kitchen set, or serving tea from the tea set now reduced to a special price. We noticed a Peg and Slate Chest for a little guy and a Monopoly game good for hours of fun for the whole family. All reduced!

When we walked into LUKES TRIM SHOP last week, he was working on a couch in turquoise leather. It is astounding what they can do at Luke's in reconditioning old furniture, or preventing further damage when a piece needs repairs.

If you have something left to you by Aunt Hepzabah and you can't get rid of it gracefully, let Luke give it a beauty treatment. A piece of furniture that you consider the scourge of the household may turn into the beauty mark that sets off the whole room.

Luke also does expert repairs on car upholstery. He can make tailored seat covers in just the style and fabric you want. And if it's a new convertible top or rear window you need now that the monsoons are upon us, Luke's the man to see.

The next time you want to have something delicious, be sure you stop in at M & M ICE CREAM and have a Humdinger Sundae. They're made with three scoops of ice cream and your choice of topping, polished off with whipped cream, nuts, and a cherry, 25c.

For the whole family, take home a half gallon of ice cream, $1. It's made right there at M & M, and whether it's party time or just snack time, you won' find a creamier, richer, tastier treat than M & M ice cream.

The trend now seems to be toward using more imaginative words in description, especially in describing colors. The lovely new shades need new terms. Nutria, Sandalwood, Grey, & Toast Turquoise, Green and Beige are some of the beautiful colors at BLENDWELL INTERIORS has for carpet buyers. Now you can take advantage of Blendwell's 1, 2, 3 Plan and save money while you're giving your home and your spirits a lift. Or, there's luxury wool carpeting for $3.95 a square yard. Besides this value, you receive service. Call for a free home decorator estimate. You can have all this for nothing down and 36 months to pay.

We seem to be going European in our means of transportation. The rise of the sports car has been phenomenal in the U.S. and now the bicycle is taking over. All over the country, more and more people of all ages are riding bikes. We may reach the point where our streets look like scenes of Paris, with bikes darting in and out of the traffic, but many of our school campuses have this appearance. It is still the school aged youngster that gets the most fun from a bike.

Nothing is so thrilling to a boy or girl as finding a new bike waiting on a birthday or Christmas. The CAMPBELL-CAMBRIAN CYCLERY has a selection of bikes, new and used, from sidewalk styles to racers. You can have a substantial trade in for an old bike, and use the lay-a-way plan to hold your gift until the big day.

If accessories are what you need, the Cyclery Shop has a complete line of parts and accessories to spruce up that old model.

For cards, toys, an jewelry, you can shop until 9:00 p.m. Friday at the CAMPBELL SHOPPING CENTER. You will not have to spend half your evenings hunting for a place to park. There is plenty of free parking space conveniently located.

Take the children in to see the toys at SUNSHINE CARD AND TOY. Campbell's only year around toy store.

There's expert watch repairing at NEILSEN'S JEWELERS as well as a selection of beautiful jewelry.

You can pick up those needed items at CAMPBELL DRUG AND PHARMACY, and see their selection of gift toiletries.

As for LAUREL VARIETY AND TOYS, you name it, they've got it. And they're open Sundays, 10:30 to 2:00. They give S & H Green Stamps as an extra bonus.

EDITORIAL

A Community Project Made-to-Order

In last week's issue we editorially suggested that the long unused gravel pit at the edge of the southern city limits could be developed into a recreational area for the community.

We supplemented the editorial with a picture spread of the area as it exist today and explained that other similar gravel pits had been converted into golf courses and parks.

We pointed out that a recreational area would be beneficial to all who live in the community, as there could be facilities installed that would offer an opportunity for every member of the family to enjoy himself.

We admitted that it would take some vision to realize the potentialities of the abandoned gravel pit which has been an eye-sore for the 25 years it has been unused. The area, in our opinion, does not lend itself to much in the way of other development. It would be too costly to try to attempt to make building sites either for industry or residential.

However by judicious moving of dirt, landscaping and grading the area has outstanding possibilities for a recreational area which we firmly believe is essential to a progressive community.

Past experiences in this community indicated to us that we should not let our enthusiasm run away from us until the residents of the community were sold on the idea.

Our experience also has indicated that to sell the residents on such a project would take considerable effort. We were resigned to that fact.

But we hoped that this project was "it".

Previous civic betterment programs did not have such a wide-spread appeal.

We wistfully thought that the various clubs would take the matter up at their meetings.

Service clubs are noted for their community service and at the present time, a movement is on foot to form some sort of a coordinating council so that there could be some united effort in community betterment programs by the clubs.

In our opinion the development of such an area provides an ideal target for the three men's service clubs. It seems to us that the three clubs in a concerted drive could accomplish a great deal toward making that abandoned gravel pit into an attractive spot.

It would give them a permanent objective and there would be tangible evidence of their endeavor as the area was improved.

We are disappointed in that thus far the local service clubs apparently have not shown any interest in this made-to-order all-community project.

Rifle Safety Course Has Merit

Much favorable comment has been aroused over the rifle safety course conducted this week by the Campbell police and reserves. The classes were held at the police station in the City Hall under the direction of Vincent Diehl.

The classes were for youths under the age of 18 and are sanctioned by the National Rifle Association They are a necessary requirement for the issuance of hunting licenses.

Parents who brought their youngsters to the classes were favorably impressed by the methods of instruction. They thought the instruction was given in a businesslike manner and that it was a valuable experience for both the youths and others who were in attendance.

Several expressed the opinion that they thought the classes so worth while that they believed they should be mandatory for all who use firearms and not limited to youngsters.

Others wondered if it would be possible to include a rifle safety class in the curriculum of high school.

They pointed out that driver education has now become an important part in the high school academic world. They suggested that because there are so many teenagers who handle firearms, a course in rifle safety would serve a very useful purpose and perhaps even save a life.

We know that school officials have been criticized for adding so-called "frills" to the high school requirements. And, if such a rifle safety course was offered they would be subject to additional lambasting.

On the other hand, those who feel that a rifle safety course is worthwhile argue that if a student in school can be required to learn how to handle a lethal weapon such as a car, it would not be amiss to teach them the proper way to handle a gun.

We are not in a position to estimate the number of students who are interested in firearms compared to those who will drive cars.

But we think that the idea could stand some exploring.

LAW IN ACTION

MACHINERY OF JUSTICE

We need to keep our machinery of justice in good working order. For you need the courts to enforce vital rights and duties—fairly and with reasonable speed.

Today our court system is underpressure. To help it work well, California has at least three agencies to keep it tuned up: The Judicial Council, the Law Revision Commission and the State Bar.

The Chief Justice heads the Judicial Council, which has three main jobs: (1) It keeps tabs on all courts—the number and kinds of cases and the way the courts handle them; (2) it sends judges in from less crowded courts to help in busy courts, and (3) it studies and recommends improvements in our court system.

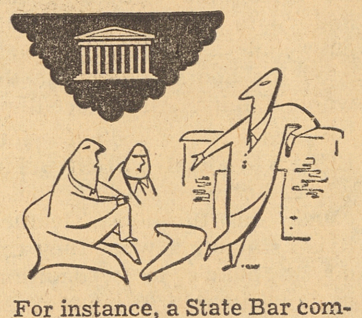
A little thing: The traffic violator who ducks court. The courts used to have to send police to chase such violators down (and they still do), but what a headache these violators will have next January.

The courts can now put in a stop order and the motor vehicle department won't give Mr. Skip Tag his new license until he settles up.

Or take a big job: The Judicial Council is just now putting the finishing touches on pretrial procedure for our courts.

Soon our courts can concentrate upon the key issues of a trial. Before the day of the trial, most likely, the lawyers for both sides will sit down with the judge and agree upon everything they can beforehand, leaving only the main points of difference for the trial to settle, thus often saving days of court time.

In many of its studies, the Judicial Council and the State Bar Board of Governors and the committees work together. Often the State Bar and Law Revision Commission will look into a problem.



For instance, a State Bar committee first suggested and the Judicial Council worked out a way to cut down our seven kinds of overlapping inferior courts to two courts—the municipal and our justice courts.

Note: California lawyers offer this column for you to know about our laws.

Over the Years

By John D. Blaine

Over the years I have been one of those in rebellion against the tyranny of style. And it seems to me we rebels have made some headway.

Possibly I go farther than most. For instance, if I were a woman I don't believe I would use lipstick. Neither would I object to telling my age.

Increased age should imply more common sense, a great common need. As for lipstick, it makes wives less kissable. What husband wants to kiss a coat of paint? An ardent lover will, but marriage is a job, and different.

One attractive wife I heard say her husband hadn't kissed her since she could remember. Another declared her husband only kissed her when she left for Europe.

For lack of being kissed by their husbands wives literally go begging. Obviously, this is a dangerous situation!

Aside from using lipstick and objecting to telling their ages women have made headway in sensible styles.

The tightly laced corset stylish when I was a young man was near to lunacy. It made natural breathing impossible. Consequently as compared to men women had shorter life.

As recently as 1930 men in this country outnumbered women by about a million and a half. Today the figures are reversed. And the Census Bureau predicts that by 1975 our women will outnumber our men by as much as 3,600,000.

For their own good, American women should encourage American men to adopt healthy clothing styles. Less and less are there enough men to go around.

Back over the years when clothing styles for women were near to lunacy, the same thing was true of clothing styles for men, though in a much different way.

For instance, the ruling style for dressed up men was the full suit: pants, vest, coat, of the same weight, winter and summer. And no matter how hot it was, no man dared to take his coat off in public.

A dressed up man with his coat off was in his "shirt sleeves", a condition horribly immodest. Except for a small V in front, the shirt was not made to be exposed.

The shirt itself, called a "Sunday shirt", was made to torture a man for his sins. It was white with a bosom starched stiff as a board. The collar was also starched stiff as a board and came separate. Cuffs were also starched stiff as a board and also came separate.

Buttons were also separate, bone or metal. Button holes were generally starched shut. To get buttons through button holes took all the strength of your fingers and more than the strength of your good disposition.

The edges of all these starched things cut you wherever they touched. And even if your job were digging ditches you dressed up to go anywhere. That was the style.

Against this starched misery perhaps I rebelled sooner than most. Fantastic as this incident may sound, it is true. On a hot summer day while Campbell Justice of the Peace I rode my bike to the County Court House in this garb: tan work pants topped by tan work shirt, worn "outer". And I got away with it.

And I rarely held court in any dress except sport clothes. Today in retirement I go everywhere in sport clothes. I own a full suit but not 50 people in Campbell have ever seen me dressed up in it.

If there is any woman in this town whose garb is more sensible than mine she has to go some. I dress in what I please, and I ask permission of nobody.

And I am certainly not alone. On the streets of our town men are seen dressed in every way imagination has up to now devised. Even in San Jose, even on First street, men are seen drsssed every which way.

In dress women are not much ahead of men, even in bright colors.

Let us hope that out of this dress reform men may get more length of years so there will be enough men to go around.

As for length of years few women have anything on me. At age 83 I am able to look down on most of the women I know. That is to say, I look down on all women who are younger. If it's a credit to live a long time, why not look down on folk who are younger?

In my life I've made many mistakes. That is to say, most of my mistakes are now over with. Younger folk have a lot of their mistakes coming up. Poor devils!

Cava to Assist With Vets' Parade

OUT on the LIMB
with George Vierhus

"We enjoy The Press more and more. First of all I read Judge Blaine's reminiscences, then "Out on a Limb" . . . Age before beauty you know. (We don't know whether the Judge will go for that. Our looks have never won any prizes.—gv)

But to continue:

"I heartily approve your Operation-Face-Lift for Campbell. Keep up the good work! I can't see why, if the LITTLE FELLOWS have to clean up and remodel their places, the BIG FELLOWS don't have to do the same—like Hunts.

"The old Campbell Lumber buildings are a mess, and the old Methodist Church stands out like a sore thumb. Maybe you'll get some action yet."

—o—

That was the signed letter we received this week. In deference to the wishes of the writer, we are not publishing the name. We are happy, however, to publish the contents, especially when the sentiment echoes our own to such an extent.

We appreciate receiving such letters, for it makes us feel that maybe our efforts are worthwhile, although, we must admit that we become pretty discouraged at times.

Letters such as this give us a needed lift. Believe us, we certainly can stand a lift now and then. (We will even concede both age and beauty to Judge Blaine)

So thanks for those kind words.

—o—

We became sort of involved this week in an academic question of school kids dressing up for Halloween.

One of our readers, a father of three schoolage youngsters, was incensed over what he termed a silly idea that could easily work a hardship and cause a disturbance at home that might have a bad lasting effect.

His point was that it meant carrying this "keeping-up-with-the-Jones" into the schoolroom.

And he was agin it.

He said that one of his youngsters flatly refused to go to school because she knew that someone in her class would have a store-purchased costume which she did not.

—o—

It was our contention that Halloween-time is a pretty good equalizer for this trying to compete on a price-tag basis.

Granting that there could be some events at school when not having a new pretty party dress might cause an emotional upset, we suggested that the best costumes we had ever seen on Halloween were those that didn't cost a thin dime.

Originality, imagination and a rag-bag seemed to be all that was needed.

Our friend, however, said we ought to try selling that to a kid some time. It was a pretty hard point to sell, he thought.

—o—

School officials also got into the act.

Neal Royer, assistant superintendent, later informed us that the same upset parent had called him to protest the entire idea of costumes for kids on Halloween.

He told Neal he felt that the whole she-bang was getting out of hand.

Neal explained that it was not mandatory to "dress-up". The parent argued, however, that if the child did not, he would be more conspicuous than if he had.

Neal also asked the dad to visit the school and see the parade to more or less reassure himself that it was not getting out-of-hand. But the guy could not make it.

—o—

We shot several pictures of the youngsters in their weird costumes. And we were bothered along with the rest of you with all sorts of goblins, witches and what-nots at trick-or-treat time.

We still must stand by our original contention that there may be times when "keeping-up-with-the-Jones" presents a real problem for the youngsters.

But Halloween is not such a time.

And we have pictures to prove it.

This next paragraph, for a change, falls right in line.

We have been talking about kids. So now we can talk about dogs.

In Campbell, we are happy to note, we have a plentiful supply of both.

Halloween may be the time for the youngsters of the community to strut their stuff but, in our neighborhood, every Monday morning when the garbage man starts banging the cans, every dog has his day . . . and say or bay.

We don't need a calendar to tell that it is Monday morning.

Shucks, this chorus of dogs will announce the fact.

One doesn't realize that there is such a variety in tones among the canine species until they sound off in the wee hours of the morning. And we do mean WEE.

It apparently takes about three hours for the garbage men to work the area.

There must be some mighty hoarse dogs when they have finished their glee club activities over that three-hour stretch.

Our dog, "Checkers" seems to be the tuner-upper or director of this canine chorus. But as smart as we think she is in some things, we haven't been able to teach her to carry anything. And least of all a tune.

We thought we would outfox (out-dog) her this week and we let her sleep in the house on Sunday night.

She loved the idea. But come morning she still heard the garbage man.

—o—

Chief of Police Bob Locke now has tangible evidence to support any future lecture on the hazards of "unloaded guns". The importance of rechecking "unloaded" guns was vividly illustrated in his own living room recently.

After returning from a recent hunting trip, he was handed a gun which was purported to be without shells.

It wasn't. Fortunately it was aimed upwards and none of the Locke youngsters were near. But everyone was pretty "shook up" just the same, Bob included.

There is now a hole in the Locke's living room that Bob can show to those who persist in carelessly handling firearms.

Concludes Series

'Press' Correspondent Ends Tour by Hongkong - Tokyo - Hawaii - Home Hop

Editor's Note: This winds up the series of stories by Virginia Gratan describing her various stop-overs on her around- the-world trip home from Germany after two years in Europe.

Miss Grattan, daughter of Mrs. Roy Archibald of Campbell and a former Campbell High and San Jose student, contributed a number of articles to The Press during her stay in Europe. In the following article she tells of her final hop from Hongkong to Tokyo to Hawaii and thence home—GV.

September 4, leave Hongkong 9:00 a.m. Arrive Tokyo 5:50 p.m. (1787 miles)

Tokyo is a big bustling city, recently prclaimed the largest city in the world. It has well over 8 million people in an area of 828 square miles. Its streets are wide and its buildings are like our modern skyscrapers. The Japanese wear Western clothes, and their streets are full of American and European cars. Tokyo is a new, modern city and not the quaint, charming Oriental capitol I had hoped to find.

A "Western" City

So Western is Tokyo that it took great effort for me to find anything Oriental about the city. A visit to a Japanese formal garden with its dwarfed trees and pools, however, helped establish the feeling of Oriental Japan. The wide roofed temples, and the ancient moat at the Imperial palace all give a feeling of traditional Japan. But the most interesting, most Japanese place I found in Tokyo was the Kabuki Theater.

The Kabuki theater is where the classical Japanese plays are performed. They are a collection of short plays, usually four, which begin in the morning and again in the afternoon, and run for five hours. The plays are poetic, somber, often of self-sacrifice and tragedy. Always there is a sense of sweet sadness about them. Mostly ladies in their silk kimonas fill the audience and sob softly all through the bittersweet afternoon.

At intermission they move to the foyer with mincing steps, bowing deeply to their friends, and buy salty rice crackers, and sweet candies of cinnamon. As the next play begins the air is full of the scent of cinnamon and fragrant spices. The elderly ladies slip off their shoes and fold their legs under them on the chair, this being more comfortable for legs used to sitting on the floor. The curtains on the elongated stage part revealing an idyllic countryside scene—a field of flowers in bloom, birds singing, lovers asleep on a hillside. The classic begins, lovely as a Japanese silk print, with a sweet sadness promising tragedy in the final act.

Visits Family

My most memorable experience in Japan came unexpectedly one Saturday morning in the form of an invitation. I was invited to visit a Japanece family in Takasaki, a small town two hours by train from Tokyo. I should come Saturday morning and I would be met at the train station the letter said. It was 9:30 a.m. when I received the letter. I decided that if I were going to get there before noon I would have to hurry. I grabbed my umbrella and hurried off to Tokyo station. At 11:55 a.m. I arrived in Takasaki.

Since it was noon and I was expected to arrive in the morning, no one was at the station to meet me. I asked a taxi driver to take me to the address but he couldn't read the address which was in English. He called in the station manager who spoke English haltingly, and he phoned my friend that I had arrived. In a few minutes Kouichi arrived and I met for the first time the Japanese pen-pal I had corresponded with for several years.

Kouichi is a 17 year old student of Engineering at Gunma University. He has studied both German and English which he spoke fluently. He took me to his home and introduced me to his little brother and two sisters who smiled shyly. Then his mother came in and bowed deeply welcoming me. I started to shake hands as is the custom in Europe. This failing I tried a bow or two.

VIRGINIA GRATTAN
. . . Arrives Home

I had been practicing the Japanese phrase for, "How do you do?" all the way upon the train, but when the bowing began it slipped my mind. Kouichi's mother was young and pretty, and wearing a Western skirt and blouse. We took off our shoes and she brought us slippers for the house. Then we sat at the small table and had tea and cookies, and talked with Kouichi acting as translator. Kouichi got some maps of Japan and pointed out places that I should visit. Then he got a map of the United States, and I tried to find Campbell. The best I could do was to point out the general area. I promised to send him a better map of California—one with Campbell on it.

A little later Kouichi's father came home, a small, smiling man. He shook hands with me, and showed me around their home while Kouichi translated. There was the tiny kitchen, the dining room in which we had had tea at the Western table, the living room with its matted floors on which we walked in bare feet.

This room was divided by sliding doors and was without furniture or ornamentation. In the day time the family sat on the floor, and at night the sleeping mats were rolled out on the floor and the living room became the bedroom. Kouichi explained that in the winter they took up a square in the matting and put in a wood stove which heats the house.

Displays Kimona

Kouichi's father asked if I had seen the kimona. Before I could answer he persuaded his wife to put on her kimona for me. She moved in quick, graceful movements slipping on the wide sleeves of the kimona, wrapping the wide sash around the waist of the kimona and tieing the large fold in back. Then she put it on me, and I quickly learned why the Japanese take such short steps. I also learned why the Japanese had switched to Western clothing, the kimona is too confining and cumbersome.

Then came dinner, gifts and parting. Kouichi's father asked if I had eaten Japanese food. I said no, but I was willing to try. He ordered some Nigiri-sushi, and in a few minutes a man from the nearby restaurant brought it in flat wooden bowls. Kouichi, his father, and I had dinner while the rest of the family waited. The Nigiri-sushi is pressed rice cut into small rectangular blocks with a slice of raw fish on top. (Luckily I did not know it was raw until afterwards) You pick up the rice with hashi (chopsticks), dip it into a small bowl of soy sauce and then try to get it into your mouth before it falls apart or the slice of fish drops off the top. It takes practice and I wasn't terribly successful. With the sushi we had tea, and for dessert fresh pears.

Kouichi's father had enquired earlier what train I would be taking back to Tokyo, and had arranged for the taxi to take me to the station. Now the taxi was waiting. Before I left the family gave me a black and gold lacquered box with many trays for candies and sweets. Then Kouichi and his mother went to the station with me to see me off. I asked Kouichi to express to his family my thanks for their gifts and hospitality. Kouichi's mother said that they would like to have me visit them again when I come to Japan. I said that it was not usual for me to travel so far, and I didn't know when I would come again. I said that his family would always be welcome in my home in California. His mother said, "It is such a long way to California." I agreed. She bowed again several times. I bowed and shook hands with Kouichi, and waved until the train pulled away, taking me back to Tokyo.

Visits Yokohama

After this I visited Yokohama, and Kamakura where the great bronze Buddha meditates in silence. And I had hoped to go look at Mt. Fuji, but the endless rain and drizzle made this impossible. I shopped and bought a kimona and tea set and paper lantern and fans till I didn't know how I would get them in my suitcase.

September 11 I was to leave Tokyo, but a typhoon in the Pacific canceled all planes bound for Hawaii. I went to an Ingrid Bergman movie which was in French with English subtitles on the bottom and Japanese characters down the side. The next day the typhoon had passed and we left Tokyo at 1:30 p.m. My traveling companions on this flight were an elderly woman from Wisconsin who was a Methodist minister, and a young girl from Rangoon, Burma, studying nursing on a scholarship to the University of Colorado. I was in high spirits, being headed home at last. We stopped in Wake for refueling where it was 85 degrees at 12 midnight. At 1:45 p.m. we arrived in Hawaii. As it happened we left Tokyo at 1:30 p.m., September 12 and arrived in Hawaii 1:45 p.m., September 12—after about 16 hours flying time. We had crossed the international date line, and had September 12 to live all over again.

Hawaii Then Home

In Hawaii I cleared U. S. customs and then was met by my friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cutting, who are stationed in Hawaii with Pan American Airways. They gave me a whirlwind tour of Hawaii in the short day and a half I had left, and sent me off with a load of leis and greetings for their friends on the mainland.

September 14 the silver plane roared through the morning sky, slipped down through the ceiling of clouds that covered everything and landed with a bump at San Francisco. I was home.

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

REMINDERS

1. Take up any bulbs, corms and tubers which you intend to move or divide next year. This includes dahlias, gladiolus, gloxinias, tuberous begonias and canna.
2. Now is planting time for spring blooming bulbs. Don't overlook the advantages of planting certain annuals and perennials as bulb cover.
3. Winter winds and rains can damage some plants unless the gardener, using foresight, stakes and ties his prized possessions.
4. Colorful berried shrubs are wonderful additions to the garden in the Fall and Winter. Look them over at local nurseries now.
5. Bedding plants, notably stock, violas and pansies, can still be planted.

Nandina

Nandina is commonly called Heavenly Bamboo, although it is not a bamboo at all. but a member of the barberry family. The popular name was given it because its habit and leaves are strongly reminiscent of bamboo. In Japan, Nandina is used at Christmas time in the same manner that we use Holly berries and leaves. Sprigs of Nandina are used for decoration and to adorn gifts.

The California Association of Nurserymen recommends nandina domestica and its dwarf form (n. d. nana) as one of the most popular shrubs in the state. It has seasonal color, lovely flowers, autumn berries and a dramatic growth habit, all of which make it a rewarding plant to include in any garden.

Nandina has a light, airy pattern of upright, cane-like stems which are slender and do not branch. The much-divided leaves are delicately textured, spreading out from the main stem in a lovely fern-like illusion. The upright pattern makes it ideal for planting in close quarters. the illusion of ferns makes it perfect for oriental and tropical effects and its delicacy makes it highly dramatic with night lighting.

The new leaves which unfold in spring are tinged with pink and bronzy-red. They turn light green as they mature and remain that way throughout the summer. In the fall the leaves begin to be tinged again, this time in purple and bronze shades. In winter they turn darker colors, sometimes a fiery red. If the home gardener wants dramatic winter color, he should select specimens from nurseries right now, for each plant varies in the intensity of its winter color.

The lovely nandina blossoms are loose, erect clusters of small creamy-white or pinkish flowers which appear in late spring. The masses of shiny red berries which follow the flowers are only produced in groups of two or three plants. Nandina does not produce berries in Southern California.

Nandina grows slowly to about 6 or 8 feet. If it is cut to the ground regularly it will stay at about 3 feet. The dwarf (n. d. nana) form grows naturally to about 3 feet. It grows more compactly and has smaller leaves and leaflets thus is more adaptable to single story residences because it always stays in proportion to the home.

This lovely evergreen is semi-deciduous in some cold winter areas. At 10°F. it loses some leaves; at 5°F. it is killed to the ground. Thus the tall form will grow less tall in colder parts of the state.

At any rate, this useful shrub is improved by removing the taller canes. The home gardener is cautioned not to prune or trim the top of the plant; this will ruin the naturally attractive habit. If done carefully, however, the gardener may wish to select certain of the branches for use in indoor Christmas decorations.

Nandina has been successfully grown in sun or shade, although the lovely autumn colors are heightened when the shrub is placed in full sun. The Heavenly Bamboo makes an excellent tub plant, one that should be kept in the foreground because of its handsome appearance. Given rich soil, including some iron in alkaline soils, and regular watering, the plant is easily cared for.

Sapium for Fall Color

From the large sapium family, long famed for members producing rubber and waxes, three varieties have recently received warm welcome from California gardeners. The three popular varieties are Chinese tallow tree (sapium sebiferum), Japanese tallow tree (s. japonica) and sapium indicum. All are particularly noted for their intense fall color advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

These unusual deciduous trees grow fast, to a height of 40 to 50 feet, bearing light green leaves in summer which turn to a brilliant, fiery red with the advent of fall. The foliage of the Chinese tallow tree is similar to that of the poplar.

The Chinese tallow tree's smooth gray trunk divides into several main branches, creating an especially graceful habit, somewhat pillar-like in effect.

If you would choose for fall colors, this is the most apt time to select trees at your nursery for you can actually see the colors that will appear on your tree year after year. Different deciduous trees within a species generally vary in degree and intensity of color. The recent popularity increase of sapium trees means that your local nursery men should have seedlings on hand for your selection.

Sapiums grow successfully throughout the state, and their greatest beauty is achieved in areas with colder winters.

Other deciduous trees noted for beautiful fall color include the Scarlet Oak (quercus coccinea), a graceful, open-growing tree, the Pin Oak (q. palustris), a delicate, pyramidal tree, and variations of the Purple Beech (fagus sylvatica atropurpurea) which have been given names appropriate to their various fall colors.

Cyclamen - Florist's Variety

Here is a plant which has varieties adapted to both indoor and outdoor culture—the cyclamen. Florist's Cyclamen (c. indicum) can be raised indoors for winter bloom throughout the state, says the California Association of Nurserymen. The other varieties, both smaller and hardier than the Florist's Cyclamen, can be raised outdoors in mild winter areas of California.

Florist's Cyclamen has large blossoms on 6 or 8 inch stems rising above large heart-shaped leaves, sometimes green and sometimes variegated. The blooms, which come in white and shades of red and pink, are present from November to April, making the plant a real joy in dark winter days.

The hardier outdoor species include atkinsii, coum and europaem. These plants with smaller flowers in shades of the same colors as the indoor variety should be planted in filtered shade in rich, porous soil. A small amount of lime is recommended for hte outdoor varieties,although the Florist's Cyclamen does better in acid soil.

Outdoors, the cyclamen is effective massed in borders or planted with plants requiring similar shady conditions, such as azaleas, rhodendrons, forget-me-nots and primroses.

Cyclamens should be kept moist during the blooming season, with overhead spraying highly recommended. During the summer, however, these hardy tubers or corms are better left on the dry side.

When the tubers or corms are placed in the ground, part of the upper half should stick out of the ground. This will keep moisture from settling and damaging the flower.

Highway Patrol Lists Emergency Phone Number

The California Highway Patrol has instructed motorists to call its emergency number, Zenith 1-2000, for CHP assistance in all accidents, blocked highways and other emergency situations.

"The emergency telephone number is for reporting traffic emergencies only", declared B. R. Caldwell, Patrol Commissioner. Zenith 1-2000 cannot be dialed but requires calling the operator who will contact the nearest CHP office.

"Non-emergency calls, such as requests for road and weather conditions, assistance in locating lost persons, and requests for other than emergency services, are to be phoned on the regular number assigned to each CHP office," he said. Calls on Zenith 1-2000 which are not of an emergency nature tend to delay true emergency calls frequently necessary to save a life.

The emergency number is toll free and will put the caller in touch with the Highway Patrol office nearest him, Caldwell said.
